

Hi Sheldon:

Thank you for writing and sharing. First off, CERN is little more than a distraction to give Sheeple a false notion that the Elite are creating the current earth changes, which we know are due to Black Star influences. The mad scientists turn on CERN to blow fuses and break magnets without achieving 99 percent of project objectives. The human species has not yet figured out how to protect spacecraft using electromagnetic fields to continue launching penis-shaped projectiles using traditional oxygen/hydrogen-based fuels rather than transitioning to saucer-type spacecraft representing microcosms of the galaxies, solar systems and planets. Imagine that the alien contingent all around us have been dealing with the Black Star for millions of years and they have technologies FAR more advanced than CERN or anything else possessed by humans today. The invisible/collapsed binary twin to our Sun is likely five to ten kilometers in diameter, but weighing in at many times Jupiter mass and sitting down deep in a gravity well with an event horizon very much like a black hole.

Anything you launch towards the Black Star will be stretched apart and into an arc-curved line of subatomic particles that from the observational perspective would appear to actually slow and then stop time taking millions of years to interact with the Black Star; even though from our outside perspective would take place in an instant. Using CERN or any earthbound influence would be like trying to use a toothpick as a lever mechanism that would snap due to the gigantic Black Star/Earth mass ratio differential. Even if you could construct an adequate lever mechanism for applying force to the Black Star, the chances are much more likely that the Earth would be moved from natural orbit around the Sun LONG before moving the Black Star one millimeter in natural movement around our Sun. These are just some of the reasons that the Elite are running to their underground Ark Cities to neutralize Black Star threats rather than trying to use countermeasures that are billions of years beyond our current global technologies. The Black Star is God's Reset Button that comes to the inner solar system every 3600 years or so having hundreds of different effects/influences based upon Sun/Black Star/Earth proximity; depending upon where Earth is positioned in natural orbit around the Sun, when the Black Star makes the move across Earth Orbit Path. All that humans can do is find means to get underground in order to get out of the way, when our planet is in the wrong place at the wrong time.

Thanks again,