

Comet-Induced Civilization Disruption: Store Now. 10-02-13
by John Dinardo

God speaks thoughts into the minds of some whose minds are seeking God. The native Americans were inclined toward the spiritual. Out of that mental quest for God arose an ancient Hopi prophecy that a "blue Kachina" will appear prior to the appearance of the great "red Kachina" (what NASA calls "Planet X"). This Comet ISON would seem to be the blue Kachina, which is prophesied to be quite large, and we know that the Sun's great gravitational force field is pulling ISON, and later X, inexorably toward it, in what will be a cosmic size U-turn under and then over the Sun (for Planet X, at least). ISON is small enough that it may be sucked directly into the Sun, which would provoke the Sun to expel extraordinarily massive flares and coronal mass ejections. We see a clue, in that the elite appear to be going into their underground cities. When you put those two facts together, along with the National Academy of Science's report that the Sun will become extremely hyperactive around 2013, then we will probably have the destruction of power grids, worldwide. I think that the continents that take solar hits during the daytime will be much more heavily damaged than the continents on the dark side of Earth when the solar hits occur. Maybe the entire Globe will get hit. This will knock out power and electronic systems permanently, because those house-size transformers cost millions of dollars, and China is the only country that produces them. Right now, there is a three-year waiting period for any transformer order to see delivery to the U.S. Naturally, China will probably be knocked out, industrially, by these solar blasts, so we must learn to live like our ancestors. Time to spend some time living with the Amish. However, solar emissions also cause earthquakes because of their electromagnetic disturbance of Earth's smooth rotation. And, when you're carrying a tray of Jell-O with pineapple slices floating on top, and someone bumps your elbow, those pineapple slices clash and crash together. That is exactly what happens to Earth's tectonic plates as they float on the underlying Jell-O-like mantle as electromagnetic forces from solar blasts impact Earth's magnetosphere. So, earthquakes will be severe "in divers places" {MATTHEW 24} around the Globe. God our Saviour tells us, in three of the Four Gospels, about these worldwide earthquake barrages, and about the wars, famine, and plague that will accompany them. The satanic rulers will perpetrate false flag attacks to blame Christians as terrorists, and this is why Jesus says that we will be hated by all of mankind for His name sake. Right now, go to your recycling center and get as many plastic bottles as you can load up on. Fill them with tap water. You know how to filter and disinfect it when you need to drink it. There are certain grains and legumes which we must buy quickly, because Earth calamities could strike any day, victimizing us in the frailness our human shortsightedness.

Amaranth, quinoa, buckwheat, millet, oats -- these are gluten-free, and the first two have complete protein. Combine millet, wheat, spelt and barley with lentils and beans according to God's instructions to EZEKIEL (Chapt. 4:9}, and you will have another form of complete essential amino acid protein components. Incidentally, dried lentils sprout easily and will provide the enzymes your body needs to fully assimilate digested food.

Well, I've gone on long enough, but you and those whom you help will benefit from this advice. John
