

I have been regularly studying Glenn Beck and his "Real News" presentations, and have been critiquing them and widely posting my conclusions coupled with his actual video discussions, so that the evidence is laid out verifiably.

This morning, Glenn Beck briefly interviewed one of his staff members, Buck Sexton, who has recently been commenting that he is a former C.I.A. agent. Incidentally, I have always read that you never leave the C.I.A. -- that is, you never leave and speak the truth about the C.I.A. If that is true, then Buck Sexton's statements are both commendable and courageous.

Maybe the video will be published tomorrow -- but he said that C.I.A. agents are scared; the agents who want to speak out are not afraid of being shot by "the enemy," rather, they are afraid of being persecuted, prosecuted, and imprisoned [my characterization] by their superiors at the highest levels.

So, we are getting a glimpse of the stalinesque fear that is calculatedly being brought to bear upon agents of conscience, such as Sybel Edmonds, Colleen Rowley, Thomas Drake, Ray McGovern, even Nancy Floyd (going back to the 1993 F.B.I. bombing of the World trade center), and going much farther back to C.I.A. agents Ralph McGehee, David McMichael, Victor Marchetti, Philip Agee, Gunther Russbacher, John O'Neill, who was murdered for trying to prevent the mass incineration of 911 [they threw him into the 911 inferno], and to the great man of conscience, John Stockwell, who worked at the highest level in "the company" with three-star generals and Henry Kissinger.

The powers-that-be, the Establishment, the Bush family, these satanists at the highest echelons of control over the N.S.A., C.I.A. etc. . . . these top bosses are scared to death that the public might wake up and prosecute them for their crimes against humanity, just as Nazis were prosecuted at the Nuremburg War Crimes Tribunals, following World War II. Their fear compels them to strike fear into the hearts of honest government agents who dare to speak out.

What shall we, the people, do to support and protect courageous agents like Edward Snowden, who sacrificed his career and his life's hopes in order to defend the American people from the iron fist of tyranny which we all now see crashing down upon us? What shall we the people do to match their courage and their consciences? Are we worth them fighting to rescue our children from stalinism, if we sit back cowardly, apathetically, and silently? No, we would not be worth their sacrifices.

Quite awhile ago, I had read that they beat John Stockwell, and today, we can find only his old speeches, and thank goodness for that. I also read that they beat and crippled Lester Coleman, an agent who was revealing the truth about the bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland.

I'm speaking out on behalf of honest government agents who are sacrificing so much for us today, at this crucial juncture, at the dawning of naziistic U.S. Government purges. Allow the true freedom fighters on the front lines to be mowed down, and we and our families will be the next victims. If we stand and fight, we can defeat this small handful of pot-bellied dirty old men of wealth and power who psychotically want to rule the entire world as Hitlers victorious. Fight now with "the pen that is mightier than the sword," or have our wives and children take bullets in the back of the head.

John DiNardo

P.S. Lieutenant Colonel Anthony Shaffer, a man of conscience, has also been threatened.
