

Part 26) How C.I.A. Hypnotizes Mass Shooters

FOXNews.com . . . . Sept. 17, 2013:

"Navy veteran Aaron Alexis, who killed 12 people at a Navy building in Washington Monday morning, had been suffering a host of serious mental issues, including paranoia and a sleep disorder, law enforcement officials told the Associated Press. Alexis had been *HEARING VOICES* in his head . . . , the officials said."

The New York Times . . . . Oct. 15, 2000

"On Dec. 6, 1980, Mark David Chapman boarded a plane in Hawaii for New York City, where he planned to win infamy by murdering a Beatle. He had a .38 caliber revolver tucked in his luggage and, by his own account, *A SMALL VOICE IN HIS HEAD* telling him to kill. Two days later, [famous Beatles musician] John Lennon was shot dead."
