

From Lee Bracker

Dismantle The Beam Project & nwocsi

There are many who know better as to which targets are specifically earmarked and in other countries.. you're one of them to know some that I don't. If I were asked what will be targeted here, it would take a week to cover it all because it's not just one target here in the US. I'm looking at one, but it's the example set for the rest. The "thousand points of light" I mentioned in an article and here referred to perhaps a thousand combined structures and buildings which would be the 2001 WTC structures multiplied by 500. There are two truths to that. One is that they do plan to devastate many key buildings and infrastructure, but not as I explained exactly. The 1000 points of light actually refer to "Illuminated ones" that are logistically positioned in places of power throughout the military, corporate world, and the alphabet agencies, etc. They are the same people who frequent the Bilderberg meetings and so forth.

The reason, John, why Hoover Dam is important to acknowledge is not for the people that would be killed if indeed it would be destroyed, but in how wars are conducted. The purpose for killing the dam is to actually wipe out the nation's major food suppliers which are Southern California and Arizona. Mostly California of course. 1/4 of the food denied to the public make them depend more on government for survival. They do plan on submerging under water the East and West coast, so Southern California doesn't matter to them. Just a bunch of useless eaters, literally, and is why Hoover Dam. So, an installation here and a building there is meaningless after the Trade Towers went. WTC was how the US dealt business with the world and in one day all gone. After that initial shot that was fired signaling a silent war against US citizens (that was the start of WWII by taking the US and nobody sees it), the globalists had sequestered us away from the rest of the countries regarding trade and then began the wheels turning when they shot the last honest judge on the same day they crippled Gabby Giffords. That was about severing our umbilical, or lifeline, to the Constitution. You see, next are the big ticket items that we depend upon such as water, food, and so on. Executive orders are set up for when water loss due to what we saw in New Orleans or a massive energy outage such as something long forgotten by most which was when the whole North Eastern seaboard was "lights out" because of a little problem in one key location. Remember that? How easy it is to cripple a nation and install a permanent law for good in one hour.

People think that something has to be officially announced to call it something, like "WWIII has just begun because Russian just took a poke at China... hold on to your seat and buy all the gold you can!" When that happens, it's just a diversion for completely taking the US for the future plan of rebuilding it into something completely else. The issue in Gaza is horrible I know, but it is merely the method by which Israel maintains a military barrier against Russia once they make their way down during the visual fight of WWII. You see, Israel and Saudi Arabia are building an empire from their "ground zero" points outward and is why they occupied everything surrounding themselves. After Gaza, it'll be India that's not spoken of, yet.

Most everyone is looking at the current event, or story fashion of the day, and can't see what I see. It's why it is very difficult to produce "what is happening now and look at the result of what they did" videos. I want to show what it is that can be done. I show the problem and then show what is supposed to happen to prevent it as you know. I have the same problem as the people announcing that Israel wants to destroy the Dome thing. Their problem is getting the news out there. Me too. They did their research and so did I and now it would be nice for some to help me spread very important messages. The fact is many focus on their research trying to prove to everyone for the sake of saying, "see, I told you so" instead of showing the solution for ways to combat the NWO, or to sustain the damage and rise from it. Most of the answers are that we invest time educating not ourselves as we already know and are living in the entertainment aspect... it is to always reach the youth by talking to them. I can't teach people my age anything that engages them into action. I'm currently working with Ryan Gable, a brilliant 24 year old who is half my age, setting things up so that I can campaign.

Videos:

Esoteric 911

Predicting the next 9/11 at Hoover Dam