

~~ McCanney's Warning: Your Life is Imperiled by Menacing Meteors ~

Several years ago, physicist and celestial observer James McCanney issued a warning to all of humankind, actually. However, on July 6th, on the Power Hour radio show, he completely denies (not disavows, but denies) what he said then: that a [Planet X mini-sun] "mini-solar system is moving into our solar system."

Now, if that yet-denied warning from him is true, then we all had better start storing food, water, and other necessities, because the statistical probability is skyrocketing (pun intended) that Earth will be bombarded by meteors and/or even by an asteroid -- because this conservatively estimated one-thousand Earth-Masses dwarf star's mass is like a colossal gravitational magnet cruising in through debris-cluttered space; it drags in with it many thousands of comets, asteroids, and meteors, which eventually sweep Earth, as its celestial shotgun blast passes several million miles away from Earth, approaching its gravitational flirtation with that great attractive one-third-of-a-million Earth-Masses streetcorner hooker, our SUN.

On the other hand, if James McCanney's Power Hour radio show denial of his warning to the World is justifiably deniable (i.e. that he has amnesiacally lost all remembrance of a [Planet X mini-sun] "mini-solar system moving into our Solar System," then you need not be concerned. Well, it's nice not to worry; isn't it? Don't worry; be happy. Being happy is much nicer than being concerned.

However, if a [Planet X mini-sun] "mini-solar system IS moving into our Solar System," as James McCanney has warned, then standby for an asteroid strike or heavy bombardments of meteors, or both, which means a lack of running water, a lack of electricity, a lack of food in the stores, and a lack of medical care in the face of widespread injuries, plus epidemic dysentery, cholera, typhus, etc. throughout the withering populations, littered with rotting, stinking corpses.

So, folks, you need to take this seriously! You are not reading just another email here, to be read, deleted, and then on to the next email. You are being put on notice that any day now . . . only God knows when -- and as Prof. McCanney says,

"only N.A.S.A." [and the ruling elite] "can see this thing coming from a long way out;"

hence, only they know when to descend into their elaborate underground cities in the bowels of Cheyenne Mountain, Colorado and beneath Mount Weather, West Virginia.

Incidentally, did you get the recent somewhat concealed British Royal Family news story? You didn't? That's because the elite wish to conceal their sudden disappearance. Surely though, the public will suspect that something is amiss when the facts leak out that the Queen, Prince Philip, Britain's House of Lords and House of Commons are all fleeing somewhere. So, what excuse did these elite conjure up, with their not-so-elite necrotic little brains, in order to conceal their sudden disappearances? Their plot to surreptitiously flee to a place of safety is masked in the Los Angeles Times news report, linked after this James McCanney radio warning to the World.

Oh, I see -- not only is the lavishly and meticulously groomed British Royal Family's Buckingham Palace suddenly and miraculously dilapidated and falling apart, with faulty electrical wiring, ceilings crumbling down, and rats infesting it (I agree, there is evidence of rats), but the residence of Britain's House of Lords and House of Commons, Westminster Palace, is also suddenly and miraculously dilapidated, with ceilings crumbling down, and infested with rats (again, I believe the part about rats).

What a fantastic coincidence! . . .

a one-in-ten-million coincidence, that two meticulously groomed grand palaces would suddenly and simultaneously disintegrate, like twin tomatoes rotting in the hot sun, together falling off the vine.

Now do you understand, folks, that these rats are deserting the ship, which may sink because it is about to be bombarded by a bee swarm of incoming bolide [bullet-like] celestial missiles? The ruling elite rats are fleeing into their underground shelters, and they want to flee surreptitiously, under the public radar, before they are detected and apprehended. You see, if we apprehend them, then they cannot ignite their Worldwide Nuclear Holocaust Plot, by which they intend to swipe-wipe the "Grand Chessboard" and to usher in their "ONE-WORLD DICTATORSHIP," which they deceitfully euphemize with their transparently cloaked term, "Global Governance." The Commander of the Cheyenne Mountain Underground City's Internal Military Defense Force, Col. James Wynn:

"We are prepared to defend this installation [from intruding citizens], and we will do whatever it takes to accomplish that mission."
