

ber, also known as a confidential vehicle identification number stamped by a manufacturer into vehicle parts. By feeding that number into a computer, tion in looking at the records for that VIN number there was any indication that the vehicle it signified had been stolen indeed have been used by other individuals to blow up the trade center. Mr. Fritz confirmed that, indeed,

Mr. Zamb
erable detail
fragment car
as can be re
He talked trend pattern
side the tire
manufactures
"Whatever
will tell you,"
to know is ho

Plan to Foil Bomb Used at Trade Center

Continued From Page A1

we didn't do that." The transcript quotes Mr. Salem as saying that he wanted to complain to F.B.I. headquarters in Washington about the bureau's failure to stop the bombing, but was dissuaded by an agent identified as John Anticev.

"He said, I don't think that the New York people would like the things out of the New York office to go to Washington, D.C.," Mr. Salem said Mr. Anticev had told him.

Another agent, identified as Nancy Floyd, does not dispute Mr. Salem's account, but rather, appears to agree with it, saying of the New York people: "Well, of course not, because they don't want to get their butts chewed."

Mary Jo White, who, as the United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York is prosecuting defendants in two related bombing cases, declined yesterday to comment on the Salem allegations or any other aspect of the case. An investigator close to the case who refused to be identified further said, "We wish he would have saved the world," but called Mr. Salem's claims "figments of his imagination."

The transcripts, which are stamped "draft" and compiled from 70 tapes recorded secretly during the last two years by Mr. Salem, were turned over to defense lawyers in the second bombing case by the Government on Tuesday under a judge's order barring lawyers from disseminating them. A large portion of the material was made available to The New York Times.

In a letter to Federal Judge Michael B. Mukasey, Andrew C. McCarthy, an assistant United States attorney, said that he had learned of the tapes while debriefing Mr. Salem and that the informer had then voluntarily turned them over. Other Salem tapes and transcripts were being withheld pending Government review of "security and other issues," Mr. McCarthy said.

William M. Kunatler, a defense lawyer in the case, accused the Government this week of improper delay in handing over all the material. The transcripts he had seen, he said, "were filled with all sorts of Government misconduct." But citing the judge's order, he said he could not provide any details.

The transcripts do not make clear the extent to which Federal authorities knew that there was a plan to bomb the World Trade Center, merely that they knew that a bombing of some sort was being discussed. But Mr. Salem's evident anguish at not being able to thwart the trade center blast is a recurrent theme in the transcripts. In one of the first numbered tapes, Mr. Salem is quoted as Secretly recorded conversations between agents and informer.

telling agent Floyd: "Since the bomb went off I feel terrible. I feel bad. I feel here is people who don't listen."

Ms. Floyd seems to commiserate, saying, "they, I mean it wasn't like you didn't try and I didn't try."

In an apparent reference to Mr. Salem's complaints about the supervisor, Agent Floyd adds, "You can't force people to do the right thing."

The investigator involved in the case who would not be quoted by name said that Mr. Salem may have been led to believe by the agents that they were blameless for any mistakes. It was a classic agent's tactic, he said, to "blame the boss for all that's bad and take credit for all the good things."

In another point in the transcripts, Mr. Salem recounts a conversation he said he had with Mr. Anticev, saying, "I said, 'Guys, now you saw this bomb went off and you both know that we could avoid that.' " At another point, Mr. Salem says, "You get paid, guys, to prevent problems like this from happening."

Mr. Salem talks of the plan to substitute harmless powder for explosives during another conversation with agent Floyd. In that conversation, he recalls a previous discussion with Mr. Anticev.

"Do you deny," Mr. Salem says he told the other agent, "your supervisor is the main reason of bombing the World Trade Center?" Mr. Salem said Mr. Anticev did not deny it. "We was handling the case perfectly well until the supervisor came and messed it up, upside down."

The transcripts reflect an effort to keep Mr. Salem as an intelligence asset who would not have to go public or testify.

A police detective working with the F.B.I., Louis Napoli, assures Mr. Salem in one conversation, "We can give you total immunity towards prosecution, towards, ah, ah, testifying." But he adds: "I still have to tell you that if you're the only game in town in regards to the information," then, he says, "you'll have to testify."

Studied for Signs of Illegality

The transcripts are being closely studied by lawyers looking for signs that Mr. Salem and the law enforcement officials, in their zeal to gather evidence, may have crossed the legal line into entrapment, a charge that defense counsel have already raised.

But the transcripts show that the officials were concerned that by associating with bombing defendants awaiting trial in the Metropolitan Correctional Center, Mr. Salem might have been accused of spying on the defense.

In an undated conversation, Mr. Anticev tries to explain the perils.

"We're not allowed to have any information regarding that," he tells Mr. Salem. "That could jeopardize, you know, if you go see a lawyer, ah, you know, with the defendant's friend or whatever like that, and you're talking about things we're not supposed to, ah, condone that. We're not supposed to make people do that for us. That's like sacred ground. You can't be privileged, ah, you can't know what's being talked about at all."

Mr. Salem seems to bridle. "I, I, I don't think that's right," he says.

The agent insists: "Yeah, but that's just a guideline. If that ever happened, ah, you can back and reported on the meeting between, ah, you know, Kunatler and Mohammed A. Elgabrown. Forget about it. I mean a lot of people ah the case can get thrown out. You understand?" The references were to the defense lawyer, Mr. Kunatler, and his client in the second bomb case, Ibrahim A. Elgabrown.

Mr. Salem seems to reluctantly agree.

"They want you to have a hand in it," Mr. Anticev goes on, "but they're afraid that when you get that kind of, ah, too deep, like me, it's almost like, especially with all this legal stuff going on right now."

If it were just intelligence gathering, the agent says, "You can do anything you want. You could go crazy over there and have a good time. Do you know what I mean?"

Mr. Zamb
mined that were from that four of same tire, w trend. The fi
a different ti trend.

Mr. Zamb
James B. Ga
works for the company, and
Mr. Gardner
examined all found in the v
was a Michel
them, a bridg
Both witness
tire fragment
tires of the w a pick-up tru
the prosecu
building up li
was at ground
was not entit fragments as
ment. Mr. Za
never before
small fragme aminated in this would ha
to do so, fir blowout.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

The prosec
sented any ev
van rented by
types of tires
issues.

Block Cutler's Role in a Retrial, U.S. Urges

Federal prosecutors have moved to prevent Bruce Cutler, who used to be John Gotti's lawyer, from representing an accused Gambino crime family member on drug smuggling and June, the jury found the Gambinos guilty of bail-jumping, but it deadlocked on the most serious charge.

In court papers filed on Tuesday with Judge Peter K. Leisure, prosecuing the agent says, "You can do anything you want. You could go crazy over there and have a good time. Do you know what I mean?"