

~~ Planet X Disinfo Blast Proves X is Approaching ~~

Thanks, Cinthya, for sending this report.

Folks, this Planet X disinformation piece appears to tailgate the desperate ruling elite's recent major disinfo blast via their new private puppet agency, the California Institute of Technology -- a highly publicized report contrived by their groomed, popularized fair-haired astronomy guru, Dr. Michael Brown [the 2nd link below], wherein a new and creatively convoluted Planet X disinfo theme is aerial-sprayed upon the world science community by the deceitful, and now desperate, ruling elite [you know, that same peace-loving, honest, humane, and giving gang of banksters/corporatists/royalists who have been running and ruining us in their usurpation of our powerful government machinery].

Here they unveil their newly devised fallback disinformation theme, designed to displace their obsolete and now leaky "there's-no-PlanetX" theme, which has obviously been sinking fast since it was torpedoed by the independent team of international astronomers at the world's largest radio telescope, the A.L.M.A. Observatory in Chile, which has bypassed NASA's domineering information channels and has defiantly published their telescopic discovery last month of what ALMA claims may actually be Planet X. You can well imagine the panic that this report must have caused within the establishment's financial/political/disinformation centers:

"What will we do now?! Other observatories will soon be sighting it, too! How do we put the lid back on the boiling Planet X pot?! Okay, we can no longer B.S. the world's astronomers, so we have to come up with a new explanation for these sightings -- one that will fool them for just a little longer until we get our world war going to distract everyone from this approaching object. . . . I know! We'll admit that Planet X is out there, but we'll tell them that it's not incoming, and that the comets that they will soon see barraging the Sun are all a part of some grand celestial ballet, way way out beyond Pluto; too far out to exert any gravitational/magnetic sensation upon planet Earth."

Notice that in neither of these two pseudo-astronomy disinformation reports do they mention the ship that torpedoed their now-sinking "there's-no-PlanetX" theme; namely, two sightings published by the world's largest telescope, the Atacama Large Millimeter Array radio telescope observatory in Chile.

"Slooh" Astronomers Tailgate CalTech's Recent "Planet9" Report, which is a PlanetX Disinfo Piece. Herein, Slooh Runs in Support of the CalTech "Planet9" Report with their own Public Disinformation Channel. See how many Lies and Distortions of Facts you can Detect

in this piece. I'll be Dissecting this Tangling of Truth, Soon. JD

In this Creatively Convoluted Disinformation Blast, Dr. Michael Brown of CalTech Announces His Own Discovery of His Planet 9, in Tacit Response to the A.L.M.A. Observatory's Published Sightings of Planet X in December of 2015. Reference to the ALMA Sightings is Glaringly Absent from the Honest Dr. Brown's Report. JD

And Now, the PlanetX/Planet9 Disinformation Theme is Launched on Mainstream Television -- a Sure Sign that The Ruling Elite are Trying to B.S., Not Only the Science World, but the General Public, Also, Since Every Alert Person Knows that Television is Truth's Toilet. JD
