

~~ Solar Blasts Earth-Directed. Prep Generators, Food, Water, etc. ~~

Over the past few days, the Sun has blasted out major flares, of magnitude X-class, as well as coronal mass ejections. Unfortunately, these solar blasts are Earth-directed, so let us hope that Earth's electric power grids are not damaged over the coming days and weeks, as this solar hyperactivity is likely to continue (sporadically or continually) over the coming days and weeks. Caution might prompt you to spend some time and effort this weekend (never mind the lawn and the leaves) preparing your emergency electricity generator, storing some water, and buying some canned food, dried legumes and grains, etc.

A few minutes into this History Channel clip, there is presented some sound scientific information on solar hyperactivity and its consequent perils to our comfortable, very fragile, and utterly dependent lifestyles. JD
<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=nwrnMTNOJbl>

As James McCanney has said, "Don't worry about dates." Just prepare now. The 2012 predictions were premature, as prophecies are usually premature, but it would be dangerous to assume that just because the bus is late, the bus is not coming.

Yesterday's intense Earth-directed solar blasting is reported here, from some of the world's best official science/technical sources.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ra_lyCzRxtc