

Truth Reporters! You Missed a Big Story. Only Aaron Dykes Reported Boston Bombing Actors 1 Year Ago. Only Now are You Reporting it, Second Hand, because it is coming from a big name.

Truth news services are all jumping on the story about the crisis actors and fake blood at the Boston Bombing. Why? Only because a reputable film journalist has broken the story just now, one year later. Where were all the truth news services when many folks were posting this story with photos all over YouTube? It's really a shame that truth news services seem to devalue reports from individuals and follow only more well known Internet news sites.

I was not able to find any other truth news service [all the familiar reporters; no need to mention them by name], none, that reported the Boston bombing photographs showing numerous crisis actors playing the roles of wounded victims, and fake blood all over the place. Last year, I posted a very compelling video about that fact, which Linda Shinskey had sent to me, but no other truth news service either noticed it or believed it. However, Aaron Dykes and Melissa Melton of truthstreammedia.com did report it over a year ago. Why have so many truth news services missed this story or thought it was too hokey to investigate . . . except for Aaron Dykes and Melissa Melton. JD

From Brendan Hunt, brendanhunt.com:
" In 2008, Richard Serino, then director of Boston's Emergency Medical Services, gave a slide presentation titled: "Marathons: . . . the Running of a Planned Mass Casualty Event," which was a detailed plan for carrying out a mass casualty drill. Pres. Obama later appointed Serino to a high post in FEMA. Serino's report emphasized using the media as a government resource. Serino went to the Boston Marathon in advance of the bombing. . . ."
