

Folks, I regret my error in my original message below. I read it wrong. It was not Yuval Diskin who died, but another former high-ranking member of Israel's spy agency, Ariel Runis. Yuval Diskin had offered words of condolence upon learning of the alleged suicide of his former colleague, this former Israeli intelligence officer who "founded a non-governmental organization dedicated to coexistence between Israel's Jews and Arabs."

"Racism," the dubious reason given as to why this man committed suicide, is reminiscent of what we now know was the murder of the Chief of Naval Operations of the United States Government, Admiral Jeremy Boorda. First, read of the facebook rumors which allegedly caused this tough high-ranking officer of Israel's dreaded Shin Bet [Shabak] to get all emotionally depressed and shoot himself. Was it one shot or several shots, as happens often to U.S. officials who allegedly commit suicide? If you study political assassinations, such as the assassination of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and the assassinations of Pres. John Kennedy and Sen. Robert Kennedy, you will learn that the victims had been resistant to the evil men at the pinnacles of power.

Former Shin Bet official allegedly commits suicide over shame. Right. Oh gosh! Someone called me a racist. I think I'll go out and shoot myself in the head."

Chief of Naval Operations [and chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, I believe] Admiral Jeremy Boorda shoots himself in the chest because someone said he wore medals which he did not deserve to wear.

Oh gosh! Someone called me a phony. I think I'll go out and shoot myself in the chest, twice.

And the hits keep on coming, folks. When you get a chance, read the book of 42 chapters titled "The C.I.A.'s Greatest Hits (the Real Story", by Mark Zepezauer and Arthur Naiman.

Yuval Diskin, you are a courageous and righteous man, and it is clear to me that you are being intimidated from obstructing evil Netanyahu's nuclear war plans. JD

I apologize for my error. It was Yuval Diskin's colleague who allegedly shot himself to death over insults on facebook. Yeah, right . . .
