

666

The Mark of The Base

The Ancient Babylonian system of numeration was Base Ten. Just like we have. The Akkadian invaders brought in Base Six. I always thought that was odd until I found that Anne Boleyn the mother of Elizabeth I of England, may have had six fingers. Polydactyly is a genetic expression that may have been found in other members of The Family. After the Akkadian and Babylonian cultures merged their math turned to Sexagesimal, which is Base SIXTY.

third position second position first position
 60^2 60^1 60^0

This means that 60 to the zero power is their ones (unit) position because sixty to the zero power = 1.

60 to the first power is 60.

60 to the second power is 3600.

etc.

So, if we suspect that since the Torah and Talmud were committed to Modern Hebrew during the Babylonian Captivity (some scholars say around 650 B.C.) let's just say: 666 BC, so that they retained the Sexagesimal numeration of their captors; and let's just say that this numeration system carried over to the insiders like Yanni (John) who wrote the Book of Revelation, then the Base 10 number of 666 is relatively meaningless until it is converted to its corollary in Base 60.

60 to the zero power times 6 = 6

60 to the first power times 6 = 360

60 squared times 6 = 21,600

So all of the hullabaloo about the King James Version of 666 may be a Red Herring when the original code is closer to 21,966.

Whatever that means....

Since my King James Version footnotes said "other ancient authorities might have it at 616" then we have

6 x 1 = 6

1 x 60 = 60

6 x 3600 = 21,600

totaling 21,666

Whatever that means....

To make it even worse you don't know if the Hebrew John was using an Akkadian numeration system of Base Six which would make it an ENTIRELY DIFFERENT NUMBER!

This just leaves us back at the beginning with a secret code and no decryption key.

Are you starting to get a sense of the utility of being a Nihilist?

The whole CHRISTIAN WORLD is caught up in numerology. There are those who find bible codes in the Hebrew letters and words; those who find them as crossticks like a New York Times puzzle; those who insist that the bible must be read backwards (and actually claim that they are NOT Witches!).

Can we just put a fine point on all of this ridiculousness? What kind of God (other than the one who likes to smell sacrifices of burning flesh and voyeuristically watch the suffering of Hu-Manity for a few thousand years) would expect that a Child Race must figure out that somehow he put a Secret Code into texts that can't even be agreed upon as authentic and never put a Junior Decoder Ring in the cereal box with it?

Come ON!

Just how stupid can people be?

Stupid is – as stupid does.

When you STOP beLIEving that 666 has any significance until the entire scope of its History has been examined then you are no longer swayed by it and taken by the hand down the Garden Path.

From my paper Ma's Sons:

Albert Pike, Legenda: “Masonry permits the utterance of false interpretations which serve the double purpose of misleading the ignorant and idle and indolent. Whom it is desirable to lead astray.”

Man, they are laughing their butts off at you guys. Or should I say: you goys? Take a lesson from the Cipher Machine that the Germans used during WWII. The codes were UNBREAKABLE until they got the decryption key. If you think 666 is significant enough to investigate and decode then do something other than the clinical definition of insanity of continuing to read the SAME PASSAGE OVER AND OVER AGAIN in your King James Bibles that tells you NOTHING and get down to some serious detective work. Instead of taking a summer vacation to the waterslide park, go to the museums where they house the earliest versions of John's hallucinatory Visions and get a snapshot of the exact page where this elusive 666 is supposed to be recorded and start working from there.

If you CAN'T get access to such a document then you really have to start asking yourself:

Why not?

Maybe they will have Coupon Day at the Vatican Library and you can look up John's original sheepskin.

Good Luck.

(p.s. the Interview with an ex-vampire dude said that Good was the minor Babylonian deity of wealth and good fortune and Luck was based off of Lucifer. Go figure. We should all become silent monks. If we did then no one would be freaking out over someone saying 666).
